Brown Bag Lunch:
Difficult Cases from the New York-Presbyterian Hospital Ethics Committee

Kenneth Prager, MD
Chair, New York-Presbyterian Hospital Ethics Committee

October 28, 2003
12:00 noon – 1:00 pm

Columbia University Medical Center
Hammer Health Sciences Center
701 West 168th Street
New York, NY 10032

Dr. Kenneth Prager led a lively discussion of a challenging case that had come before the New York-Presbyterian Ethics Committee, showing how complex a case can be and how the audience, like the members of the ethics committee, can differ in their judgments and suggestions for managing such cases. Eighty-two members of the Columbia Health Science community attended, including medical students, faculty, and others.
